Contribution notes for employers

Under the 'reporting late payment of contributions to personal pensions' code of practice issued by The Pensions Regulator, Wealthtime Classic is required to report any failure by the employer to make a contribution where this has been agreed with an employee.

Such an agreement between an employer and employee is known as a direct payment arrangement and applies to all contributions paid by an employer which are:

- deducted from an employee's pay.
- paid on the employer's own account.
- both of the above.

The code applies in the following circumstances:

- if there's a late payment* of a contribution which is likely to be of material significance to the pensions regulator
- if information isn't provided to us by an employer when requested to do so for contribution monitoring purposes.

The code requires Wealthtime Classic to report to The Pensions Regulator in these circumstances.

*Late payment means a payment that's not received at all, isn't received on time, or a payment that's not received in full.

The due date will be the 22nd of the month following the month the contributions were deducted from the employee's pay when collected electronically (i.e. by Direct Debit).

We expect, for example, contributions deducted from payroll in May to be collected by Direct Debit on 7th or 21st June.

Reporting late payments

The late payment of a contribution applies to any type of contribution that falls into the category of direct payment arrangement that's not paid to us by the due date. The due date is the latest date this type of payment must be received by.

This due date will be as defined in the bold paragraph above. Please allow 15 working days for us to set up any Direct Debit mandate. Money received after the due date will be regarded as a late payment.

Please note: if the person signing the Direct Debit mandate is doing so on behalf of a company or partnership, then proof that person is an authorised signatory of the organisation may be required before the Direct Debit mandate can be set up. Please provide the relevant authorised signatory list.

If you require this document in an alternative format please contact us.

Wealthtime Classic is a trading name of Wealthtime Limited. Wealthtime Limited is a private limited company registered in England & Wales. No. 06016480. Registered Office: 1 London Road Office Park, London Road, Salisbury SP1 3HP. Wealthtime Limited is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. FCA Number 468461.

Deciding to report

If we have reasonable cause to believe a late payment is likely to be of material significance, we have to submit a material payment failure report to the pensions regulator.

For example, a report will be made if:

- contributions are unpaid 90 days after the due date, or
- we become aware you don't have adequate procedures or systems in place to make sure the correct and timely payment of contributions due, or
- if we have reasonable cause to believe that an employer cannot or will not pay an outstanding contribution.

Timescales for making a report

We'll report to The Pensions Regulator within 10 working days of identifying that a late payment is of material significance.

Chasing late payments

We'll pursue late payments on a proactive basis before submitting a report to the pensions regulator. Your employee will be kept informed of our actions.

Timescales for us to inform you

If we make a late payment report to the pensions regulator, we'll inform employees/their representatives of this event at the same time.

Reporting non-provision of information

If we ask you for information to help us monitor the payment of contributions, you must provide the required information within seven days of the original request.

We must then report to the pensions regulator within 14 days of the date of the request if we haven't received payment information from you that enables us to monitor payments. We'll also report this non-provision of information to the employees concerned at the same time.

We'll make copies of all correspondence with you available to the employee and/or their representative regarding late payments.

More information about this code of practice can be found at thepensionsregulator.gov.uk.

Please note: We'll need a separate, individual Direct Debit mandate for each employee. Multiple employee payments on the same Direct Debit mandate can't be accommodated.
